Valentine's forecast. Venus, the planet of love and relationships, travels through your sign then into your house of all things of worth. It also happens to be your new moon on Valentine's Day.

2010 is shaping up to be a great year for you, if you are willing to learn from previous experiences and to appreciate the individual you are. This means not being a doormat, acknowledging your value and focusing love on yourself as opposed to everyone else. This Valentine's for you is about the relationship with yourself and this should be your focus anyway.

With Mars currently retrograding in your love and relationships house you may not find your valentine this year but it doesn't mean you aren't loved. That's where you come in.

Money matters should be on the up as Venus rules the second house (governing value and worth) and will join Jupiter, amplifying her presence.
